THURSDAY MORNING, JUNE 19, 1862

Simon Cameron.

Mr Cameron has been severely censured for acts while Secretary of War—they being the charges of official corruption. The House of Representatives adopted a resolution which seemed to indorse these charges.

It is well understood that Mr Cameron was appointed Secretary of War against his wishes He chose the Treasury Department or a Foreign Mission The vacancy in the Mission to Russia gave him an opportunity to gratify his wishes. He resigned his seat in the Cabinet and was appointed Minister to Russia.

Before leaving for Russia, he visited Harrisburg, Pa, his former residence—accepted a public dinner from his old townsmen and in response to a toast, addressed the crowd in a speech, referring to his past history while residing in Pennsylvania and to late events while at the head of the War Department. Under all the circumstances of the case we think a brief synopsis of that speech is due to him as an act of justice The old adage is appropriate—"Strike, but hear."

Mr Cameron said that forty-five years ago, that day, he came to Harrisburg, a poor destitute, sickly boy—without any reliance but on the overruling Providence, which he had been taught to believe, would always follow proper actions He obtained employment in a printing office, and went to work with such a heart as will always secure success A few years of assiduous toil made him the owner of a printing office. It was then no uncommon thing while prosecuting his business and in improving his mind to retire at midnight and to rise at four in the morning to prosecute his daily labors He labored for the internal improvement of the State, which had given her so much prosperity His friends were familiar with the high positions accorded to him by his fellow-citizens, but might properly advert to his acts while a member of Mr Lincoln's Cabinet He took a position in that Cabinet against his taste and judgment and with the perfect understanding that he was at liberty to resign when he chose to do so He said he toiled in the War Department as no man ever toiled before. Even the doors of his private dwelling were besieged from early morn to the latest hours at night the Department was surrounded on all hands and at all hours. Certain members of Congress who figure in the vote of censure, were ever besieging his doors, and often patiently waiting for hours to catch a part of the drippings from the War Department He said that he may have committed errors but he was proud to say he could see no act of his which he would not repeat under the same circumstances

He then proceeded

"Upon my appointment to the position I found the department destitute of all the means of defence, without guns, and with little prospect of purchasing the materiel of war, I found the nation without an army and I found scarcely a man throughout the whole War Department in whom I could put my trust The Adjutant General deserted The Quartermaster General ran off The Commissary General was upon his death bed More than half the clerks were disloyal I remember that upon one occasion Gen Scott came to me, apparently in great mental tribulation. Said he, I have spent the most miserable day of my life a friend of my boyhood has just told me I am disgracing myself by staying here and serving this fragment of the government, in place of going to Virginia and serving under the banner of my native State and I am pained to death ' But the old hero was patriotic, loyal and wise enough to say that his friend was wrong and he was right in remaining where he was It should be remembered, also, that in these days of peril and alarm, an outcry went up from all portions of the loyal States urging the government to procure arms equipments and supplies by any means and at any cost—to disregard the usual routine of contracts—to cut through 'red tape, and at the hazard of encountering speculators and peculators to prepare itself to meet the immediate dangers Great as were the exertions then made they fell far short of the demands of the people The administration was at that time censured for its caution in guarding itself against imposition because such caution was considered an evidence of delay

You all remember, gentlemen, the day of the President's proclamation calling upon the people of Pennsylvania (because the [illegible] was made upon you here in common with other States) for troops to defend the national capital. My son happened to be in Washington, I sent him thither with the utmost dispatch and asked him to appeal to every man in this town and through the country to send down every soldier who would come Within three days after the issuing of the proclamation, four hundred and eighty troops from Pennsylvania arrived in Washington They were the first to inspire the government with hope and courage to contend with the awful crisis then impending They came here without arms and were furnished from the arsenal at that place Directly after this—within twenty-three days—three or four regiments were assembled at Cockeysville, Maryland, by my order At the same time a number of bridges on the Philadelphia and Baltimore Railroad via Wilmington, were burned or destroyed It was at this time that the mob in Baltimore murdered our unarmed soldiers in her streets on their way to the defence of the capital and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad refused to carry our troops At that time when the loyalty of nearly all the inhabitants was doubted, Mr Seward, the Secretary of State, in company with the Secretary of the Treasury called upon me and said 'We must have somebody in New York to assist the public officers there in collecting and forwarding troops' asking me to name any individual whom I considered competent for that purpose I was acquainted with but few people in New York, but after a moment's reflection I recollected Mr Cummings, with whom I had an intimacy when he was a citizen of this State The two gentlemen then informed me that they had appointed Mr Cisco of the Sub Treasury, Gen Dix, now in the army Mr Opdyke, the present Mayor of the City of New York, and Mr Blatchford a citizen of New York and as I stated requested me to name some other gentleman I gave the name of Mr Cummings, and associated with it that of Governor Morgan of the State of New York '

These gentlemen were not authorized to expend money They had no authority to act independent of the Government They called for money and were referred to the Treasury Department At the end of fourteen days the emergency for which they were employed passed and the authority given them was revoked

There are several other points in the address of Mr Cameron, which we desire to notice, but which must be deferred until another issue of our paper

From the Upper Columbia

We glean the following items from the Mountaineer of June 18th

From Powder River —Mr Cooper just from the mines says Kirkpatrick's company, on Blue Canyon, are taking out dust at the rate of $180 per day Fifteen miles above gold prospects had been found, yielding $1 to the pan Miners on Auburn Flat are packing the dirt on their backs one hundred and fifty yards and making $5 per day, with a rocker There is a great want of water in the mines but two companies have been organized for the purpose of introducing water from Elk creek It is supposed that there are from 700 to 1,000 persons in the Powder river country—the greater portion of them engaged in prospecting Not more than twenty claims were fairly opened and the average yield of those was all the way from $10 to $25 a day to the hand Flour was selling at $35 per hundred, and scarce at that, Bacon, 50c fresh beef, 25 and 30c Leather boots and overalls, none in market

A New County —The people of Powder river have organized a new county, and named it Baker County, in honor of the late Senator They elected a County Judge and a full set of county officers on election day J M Kirkpatrick was chosen to represent the county in the next Legislature, when application will be made to legalize the action of the people The county has a population of over twelve hundred—the number required by law

Business of all kinds is suspended at the Dalles by the flood

Crops will be short this year in Wasco county, on account of the lateness of the Spring and the high water in the creeks

A man writes to his partner at the Dalles from Salmon River, that his claim yields $1 to the bucket

One hundred and fifty Washoe miners have arrived at Powder River, after six weeks travel They report a large number on the way and the road hard to travel

Main street, Dalles, is completely washed out—not a single house doing business

On Tuesday the water at the Dalles was six feet above the high water mark of 1859, and still rising A large frame building at the Dalles in the rear of Bigelow's stone block, floated away on Saturday It was of little value

About 150 men are mining on the Columbia river, below Fort Colville twenty-five miles from the mouth of the Spokan, making from $8 to $20 per day with the rocker

A scarcity of supplies is anticipated from the interruption of commerce up the Columbia Flour has advanced, at the Dalles, to $16 per bbl Bacon, 23 and 24 cents, and but little in the market Beans, 12c All other staple articles have advanced

It is hoped that supplies may be had by way of the territorial road at the Cascades by which road we believe the steamers Idaho and St Clair are passing freight

The Government is now building 48 iron clad frigates rams, batteries and gunboats, at a total cost of over $20,000,000 When they are all finished, which will be in less than a year, the United States that will possess the most formidable and effective naval force in the world

Sykes one of Lane's Indian Agents in Oregon is a Federal prisoner at Columbus, Ohio with irons on his legs He was captured in Virginia with a portion of Jackson's army, in which he was an officer

Died —From a private letter from Olympia we learn that W G Dunlap, merchant of that place, died June 10th, after a prolonged illness

A new planet, of the thirteenth magnitude near the star Beta Virginis, was discovered at Hartford Observatory, on the 8th April

By Last Night's Stage.

No Later News —The overland mail last night brought us no later news from the seat of war The Sacramento Union of the 12th June says 'The Continental Telegraph is silent beyond Salt Lake Owing to adverse influences in the atmosphere, accidents to the line and occasional interruption with the wires by parties whom it may be impossible to detect, we fear it will be long before regularity of operation will be a distinguishing feature of our electric communication with the East But the continuous working of such a line for a single week is one of the wonders of the age to which many of us do not render sufficient homage'

California News.

The Government of [illegible] has remitted to England one hundred thousand pounds sterling, to purchase gunboats An additional four hundred thousand pounds will be sent for the same purpose The gunboats are to be used against piratical fleets

The United States [illegible] steamer [illegible] has been sold for $50,000 to [illegible] and Merrill

Dr McCormick U S A has been ordered by telegraph to report at New Orleans to take charge of the Medical Department

The California Steam Navigation Company has declared a dividend of one and a half per cent

The bark Comet brings Honolulu dates to the 24th of May The steamer J L Wright arrived safe [illegible] from Shanghai on May 15 News received at Honolulu that Wright [illegible] Washington D C On the passage from San Francisco the bark Yankee fell in with the wreck of the ship Swamp

Destructive Fire in Grass Valley —A fire broke out at Grass Valley June 11th and destroyed property to the amount of $30,000. The fire spread so fast that hardly anything was saved The Grass Valley National saved only about $100 worth of material

The Battles of a Year —One year ago, the 12th of April occurred the first action in this war Ten thousand rebels opened fire upon seventy loyal soldiers in Fort Sumter Since then there have been fought twenty-five battles besides numerous skirmishes The following list will show the year's work

1. April 12 and 13 Fort Sumter, S C
2. June 10th Big Bethel, Virginia
3. July 5th, Carthage Missouri

Of these actions eight occurring in 1861 were defeats for us and six victories but since New Year's the list shows an uninterrupted series of splendid successes for the Union arms Leaving out the battle of Pittsburg Landing, our losses during the war have been—in killed 2,400 wounded 4,196 prisoners, 4,400 total loss exclusive of deaths in camp by disease 8,1[illegible] The rebel loss has been in killed [illegible] and wounded 12,420, prisoners 9,70[illegible] besides which the rebels have lost enormous stores of provisions not less than three hundred and fifty cannon and at least nine Generals killed, namely Generals Barton, Garnett, [illegible], Johnston, McCulloch, McIntosh, Slack, Zollicoffer, [illegible] Tilghman Buckner Mackall and two other prisoners —New York [illegible]

Affairs in Mexico —The Governor of Guerrero (Alvarez) writes from [illegible] in that State, of date of May 20, to the [illegible] of this city says the San Francisco Bulletin, that he had received news from the City of Mexico that the French had capitulated Another letter dated the 27th of May, from the same place and from another party, has also been received here, which confirms the news of the capitulation

The World's Fair —A tall specimen of the forests of Vancouver Island has been sent to the World's Fair in the shape of a tree two hundred and forty feet high As it could not be accommodated in the exhibition building, it was raised on the grounds of the Royal Horticultural Society This tree is not a circumstance to the big trees of Calaveras

[illegible]ORNING OREGONIAN has a larger [illegible]SCRIPTION LIST than any other Daily published in this City

[illegible]AILY OREGONIAN [illegible]

[illegible]ATION.—The following is an [illegible] excellent composition read by a [illegible] lady at the Public School examination [illegible]day afternoon:

'Ambition.'

[illegible] have been [illegible] to the [illegible] It is one which [illegible] never be [illegible] when once [illegible] full sway in his [illegible]arts. It [illegible] persons [illegible] through all [illegible]ies, and then man is not satisfied. Yet [illegible] ambition al[illegible] but misguided am[illegible]. There is an ambition high and [illegible] which leads men to great and good deeds [illegible] the poet's imagination and stores [illegible] with themes which render his [illegible] worthy to [illegible] [illegible] men to [illegible] of [illegible] with [illegible] there would [illegible] competition and [illegible] competition in progress [illegible] it does not [illegible] properly [illegible] people like [illegible]der, to [illegible] worlds to conquer— valuable to [illegible] the scholar [illegible] study is without a motive. An ambition [illegible] is certainly proper and even necessary [illegible]position, [illegible] desire to become like [illegible] great author is often a great incentive [illegible] action; but we should shun [illegible] ambition as we would a deadly [illegible]

A gifted poet has said:

[illegible] ascends the [illegible]
[illegible] peaks most wrapped [illegible]
[illegible] surpasses or subdu[illegible]
[illegible] down on the [illegible]
[illegible] high above the sun [illegible]
[illegible] with the earth [illegible]
[illegible] are icy rocks [illegible]
[illegible] tempests [illegible]
[illegible] reward the toils which [illegible]

[illegible]ILURE.—From present indications we [illegible] that the citizens of Portland [illegible] expedient to get up a Fourth of July cel[illegible] in consequence of the flooded and [illegible]ble state of the streets [illegible] all ef[illegible] far, to procure the necessary means [illegible]ved a failure. If nothing better or [illegible] magnificent scale can be done we [illegible] suggest the getting up of a picnic par[illegible] either go across the river east of the [illegible] charter all the steamers that can be [illegible] for the occasion and go to Vancouver [illegible] excellent grounds can be found for [illegible] good time, in the way of healthful [illegible] able festivities, amusements, plays [illegible] We have no doubt that our friends at [illegible] would be happy to see us come [illegible] spend the day with them besides [illegible] beautiful grounds around the garrison [illegible] certainly be a peculiarly appropriate [illegible] the assembling of all patriots and [illegible] our country around that glorious [illegible] greet each other in joyous reunion [illegible] of our national independence and free[illegible]

[illegible]ROBBED.—A safe was robbed early [illegible] morning at the "Fashion Saloon [illegible] taken therefrom, supposed to have [illegible] by a lad employed in setting up [illegible] the bowling alley. The money [illegible] longed to certain parties connected [illegible] establishment who probably can [illegible] lose it without sustaining material [illegible] The boy is gone, but as yet no [illegible] has been obtained as to the route [illegible] Mr. Denison started in pursuit of [illegible] California mail stage as soon as the [illegible] know that the money had been sto[illegible] if the boy took the stage he will [illegible] be overhauled before he gets far.

[illegible]DIRECTORY.—Mr. Benj. Needham of [illegible] Fargo & Co.'s Express office is getting [illegible] directory for the City of Portland, a [illegible] much needed. He informs us that [illegible] have the copy all complete in a [illegible], ready for printing and circulating [illegible] will also be an excellent adverti[illegible]ium, and will contain many valu[illegible] interesting statistical facts connected [illegible] city and State. We doubt not it [illegible] valuable book.

[illegible] OVER.—Lincoln, the young man [illegible] to have stabbed Dennis [illegible] at Taylor's [illegible], several days ago, returned [illegible] the opposite side of the river and [illegible] himself up to the authorities. An ex[illegible] was held before Justice [illegible] [illegible] held to bail in $1,000 bond but [illegible] to give the same was locked up in the [illegible] jail. We suppose, however, that he [illegible] bailed out in a few days by some of [illegible] friends, as we learn that no positive facts [illegible] substantiated sufficient to convict him [illegible]der.

[illegible] LICENSE.—Mr. W. H. Frush has pos[illegible] [illegible] to the effect that he intends making [illegible] application before the County Commissioners [illegible] of Multnomah county at their next ses[illegible] for a license to establish and run a f[illegible] across the river from the foot of Stark [illegible] to the opposite bank, for the [illegible] of [illegible]

[illegible]OUT FOR FUN.—Max Irwin's [illegible] company of Ethiopian minstrels are to [illegible] an entertainment this evening at the [illegible] William Hall [illegible] programme [illegible]ed, and we doubt not the performance [illegible] fully equal to any heretofore presented [illegible] this noted troupe.

[illegible]OVED.—Mr. Barrett's new paper [illegible] been again moved into C. Barrell's [illegible] building, Front street, opposite [illegible] in consequence of high water [illegible] him out of the Post office building.

FISH AND POTATOES.—A good joke was played off on a certain gentleman yester[illegible]day while coming down from the Cascades on the Julia. It seems that a friend of a gen[illegible]tleman in this city, had put up a small box [illegible] of [illegible] trout and labelled the box [illegible] By some means a gentleman from Vancouver found out that the box contained trout and thinking he would play off a good joke on the Portlander procured a large sheet of paper, wrote his own name and residence thereon and pasted it over the name of the person to whom the box was intended. Unfortunately however, the owner found out the trick in [illegible], and watching a favorable opportunity conveyed the box to a dark corner, took the top off, extracted the fish and then filled the box again with old [illegible] potatoes, etc., and [illegible] the top down again and replaced it in its original position and awaited further results. When the boat landed at Vancouver the Vancouverite very complacently picked up the box and walked ashore with it and con[illegible]gratulating himself upon his wit and good luck, pulled off his hat and waved it in tri[illegible]umph, whereupon a number of gentlemen on the boat who had been posted in the pas[illegible]sing events, returned the congratulation with hearty round of cheers and laughter. We [illegible] that the gentleman from Vancouver found to his mortification, that he was not so lucky after all and in all probability took supper on cold potatoes or went to bed with an empty stomach. What's the price of po[illegible]tatoes in Vancouver? Will some one please inform us.

FROM THE CASCADES.—The Julia arrived [illegible] the Cascades last evening but brought no later [illegible] from the mines of importance. We are indebted to Mr. J. C. Franklin, of [illegible] Express, for copy of Moun[illegible] and other favors. Mr. Franklin brought down a fine lot of Powder river dust which will be assayed at Robbins' Assay Office.

SHE WEARS THE BREECHES.—We noticed a female down street last evening with men's clothes on, adopted no doubt, because she found it easier to wade in breeches than in crinoline.

The Hard Times.

"There is a perfect furor of enthusiasm in our ward. The ladies are doing wonders and miracles in the way of work for the soldiers," said Miss Pauline, settling her flounces gracefully about the ottoman

My Aunt Hester gave a little, quick laugh, the tone of which I understood, though Miss Pauline did not. I looked up at her, but she was quietly intent on her knitting—it was a thick, heavy sock, ribbed all the way to the foot

"Such sacrifices as our ladies do make—it is unprecedented!" Miss Pauline proceeded to say. Pauline inherited some French blood, which might, perhaps, account for what my little sister Rose called her "exclamation's way"

"Y-e-s," I replied, hesitatingly, "the girls of Carthage to be sure cut off their hair for bow-strings, but that wasn't much I've often wished I had an excuse to cut off mine, it is so much trouble to dress it"

"Oh, dear," said Miss Pauline, in dismay, that would be a sacrifice" She wore hers in long, picturesque, jetty curls

"We doubtless make as great sacrifices as any women ever did in the cause of freedom—giving up our friends to go to the battle field," I added

"You don't know what you are talking about, girls," here broke in Aunt Hester, brusquely "Sacrifices!" she exclaimed, contemptuously, looking at Miss Pauline's feathers as she spoke, "I should think you'd know better, Julia"

I did know better, but I was partly trying to fall in politely with Pauline's ways of talking, and partly thinking of Cousin Lewis, who went in the company that started last week I said nothing, however

"My father was among the men that fought for the old eagle first of all," said Aunt Hester. "My mother kept us little ones alive—there was seven of us—on a little meal, a little rye, and a little Indian, for months; and we were just as hungry, and I don't know but hungrier, when we had eaten our bit of bread, than we were before, though my teeth used to long to bite into something! We would chew bark and gum and bits of straw to keep our teeth in practice, and then we went to the woods for checkerberry leaves, and sometimes we had berries One day we got no dinner, and a faint clamor had assaulted mother's ears for an hour or two It grew stronger, until at last we all got round her and took hold of her dress and yelled, just like a pack of hungry wolves, I suppose My mother laid down her work—she, too, 'sewed for the soldiers,' yes"—and Aunt Hester dropped her work in her lap and looked as though she saw a great way off—"and she wove the cloth, and she spun the flax, and she raised the flax that it was made of, and every needleful of thread it was sewed with. There was old John Moleus, who wasn't very bright, and he didn't go a soldiering with the rest, and he used to go about and swingel out the flax. Well, as I was saying, mother laid down the linen garment she was making, (American manufactures,' mind you,) and looking very cheerfully at us, rose up 'Come, children,' she said, 'I am going to show you something.' Little Eben took hold of one of her hands and I of the other; the rest followed after. She led us across the mowing out to the rye-field.

"Just look here, children," she said, "it won't be many weeks and there will be bushels of grain here, and then we shall send it off to the mill, and the meal will come home, and we'll have as much bread as we can eat." Then she began to sing a little hymn to herself. Poor woman, she hadn't eaten a mouthful that day, and her heart ached in her for her children, but we didn't know it then, and we caught her cheerful way as the hilltops one by one catch the sunlight after a tempest People talk of hard times nowadays—poor things! Why, how much are the men who have gone out of this city missed in the way of business? I grant you that some few women feel it, but they are taken care of by the rest. In the days I've been telling you of there wern't men enough left to raise the crops, or to harvest them when they were raised, and the women had to do it—some with little babies, most all with little children to take care of and to keep from starving, no factories; no stores or shops or markets when you got out of Boston; no men but the infirm ones left behind, and the soldiers suffering for clothes—couldn't make up a box and send it off to them on the cars any time, you see My father said when Cornwallis surrendered, his men were all dressed splendidly, even to the common soldiers, with their red coats and powdered hair; and as they passed through our lines, half of our men barefoot and their clothes a bunch of rags about them, he heard them mutter between their clenched teeth, "To be obliged to submit to such scoundrels!" It was more than he could bear, he said," and the old lady laughed triumphantly, as though she saw it in a panorama. After a little pause she went on: "Such gossamer girls as we have now—bah! They can't even stay alone in the house of an evening when there's nothing on earth to be afraid of but the dark! Their grandmothers endured and accomplished ten times over enough to kill them outright I don't know but this war is sent to put some resolution into the ladies as well as to shake some conceit out of the lords —we are all of such noble blood in these days, there are no men and women, I believe!"

"You are too satirical, Miss Hester," said our caller, rising; "but I must go to the ward rooms, good morning," and she passed gracefully out

Aunt Hester rose, too, and went into her own room, which opened out of the parlor In a minute I heard her reading aloud to herself The door being ajar, I heard these words

"It is no hard matter for many to be shut up in the hands of a few, and with the God of heaven it is all one, to deliver with a great multitude or a small company; for the victory of battle standeth not in the multitude of a host, but strength cometh from heaven They come against us in our pride and iniquity, to destroy us and our wives and children, and to spoil us, but we fight for our lives and our laws"

Of all diseases the first great cause
Springs from neglect of Nature's laws

To the Afflicted:

Suffer not when a cure is guaranteed in all stages of secret diseases—Self Abuse Nervous Debility Syphilis in all its stages Strictures Gleet Gravel Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder Mercurial Rheumatism Scrofula, Pains in the Bones and Ankles diseases of the Lungs, Throat Nose and Eyes Ulcers upon the Body or Limbs, Cancers Dropsy Epileptic Fits, St Vitus Dance—and all diseases arising from a derangement of the sexual organs—such as Nervous Trembling, Loss of Memory Loss of Power General Weakness Dimness of Vision with peculiar spots appearing before the eyes Loss of Sight Wakefulness Dyspepsia Eruptions upon the Face Pains in the Back and Head Female Irregularities—and all improper discharges of both sexes It matters not from what cause the disease originated however long standing or obstinate the case recovery is certain and in a shorter time than a permanent cure can be effected by any other treatment even after the disease has baffled the skill of eminent physicians and resisted all their means to cure. The medicines are pleasant without odor [illegible] vegetable [illegible] During fifteen years of practice in Europe the Atlantic States and California I have rescued from the jaws of death many thousands who in the last stages of the above mentioned diseases had been given up to die by their physicians which warrants me in promising to the afflicted who may place themselves under my care a speedy and permanent cure. Private diseases are the greatest enemies to health as they are the first cause of consumption scrofula and many other diseases and should be a terror to the human family. A permanent cure is scarcely ever effected [illegible] constitution filling the system with mercury, which with the disease hastens the sufferer into a rapid consumption [illegible]

State of California County of San Francisco:
Subscribed and sworn to before me, this seventh day of April A D 1856 Signed
[L. S.] JOHN MIDDLETON, Notary Public.

MARYSVILLE, June 24, 1856.

DR L. J CZAPKAY San Francisco—Sir. I have used the last of your medicine and do not think I shall need any more as I feel very well except that I have not entirely got my strength yet but soon will with the appetite I have. It is just three weeks you may recollect, since I called at your Institute with my constitution, as I thought, broken entirely and never thought you would be able to cure me perfectly but thought you might be able to do something to ease the pain in my back and head, and strengthen my nerves so that I would not get excited and tremble at everything Now that you know what I expected, you may judge of my satisfaction at my complete recovery from these symptoms and the removal of those sores and blotches from my skin and the ulcers from my throat, and the entire stoppage of those emissions which you said were principally the cause of my sickness I can hardly tell you which is the greatest my joy or my surprise, for except not having fully got my strength I feel as well as any man can feel Enclosed I send you twenty dollars over your charge, and think myself cheaply cured If you think anybody will be benefited you may put this letter in the newspapers. Believe me gratefully yours, THOMAS HAYDEN.

Thankfulness is the incentive to gratitude.

CERTIFICATE —Prompted by an honest desire of my heart, I wish to lay before the public a case which deserves a commendation not only as an act of scientific skill, but that of humanity also About two years ago I suddenly, and from causes unknown to me was seized with a fit of epilepsy, which owing to my inability to meet the expenses consequent upon a thorough medical treatment, and the discouragement which I met with on attempting it, soon became such (I was then led to believe) as to defy the skill of any physician I was frequently, while in pursuit of my calling, thrown down to the ground without the slightest warning and although unconscious the agonies, I yet despised the miseries of my life and soon learned to look upon those who would render assistance or shelter me from danger as enemies who sought to prolong the existence of my miseries, While in this state and having previous to my affliction tasted the sweets of life, I once more was induced to attempt seeking aid of a physician, and by recommendation, called upon Dr L J Czapkay I told him of my circumstances, and of my inability to reward him for his services; regardless which however he at once undertook my case, and with the blessing of God I was once more restored to perfect health Unable to reward him for the boon which I enjoy at present and yet conscious of my indebtedness, I consider it due to myself and all afflicted to make the case public, in order that those in need of medical advice may find a physician in whom every confidence can be placed
